immediate superior stated that:

reported for duty in August, 1946, as Administrative-Finance Officer with a Field Unit. Mr. [redacted] duties as assigned entailed considerable detailed work, necessitating a constant use of his eyes requiring a high degree of concentration. In the late summer of 1947, [redacted] complained of constant headaches which he believed to have been induced by constant eye-strain. This condition deteriorated to the point where, in December, 1947, he was unable to actually perform all of his detailed work. He placed himself under medical treatment and remained available for consultation and advice at all times.

"By February, 1948, he was completely incapacitated insofar as the use of his eyes was concerned, but he still was available to his assistants for guidance and counsel. Due to his incapacity, he was returned to the United States in the spring of 1948 for medical treatment.

[redacted] was exceptionally well-qualified for his position, and only his disability prevented him from completely fulfilling it.

"While he was considered to be a moderate user of alcohol, it is not believed that this in any way interfered with his work while abroad. He did not evidence at any time an addiction to either drugs or alcohol."

If we can be of any further assistance to you in this matter, please advise us.
